

comfort. love. respect.

Living life as fully as possible is what hospice and palliative care are all about.

Whether your loved one has a serious illness and lives in a nursing home, an assisted living facility, or their own home, you'll find compassionate care with Hospice. Hospice is committed to delivering everything someone needs to travel their end-of-life journey. Our expert team will create the best care plan with your loved one's doctor. And Hospice will be on call 24/7, not only for physical care, but for emotional and spiritual support as well.

For more information, call 686-8077
or visit HospiceBuffalo.com

The only licensed hospice program in Erie County.

hospice is

A unique way of caring for people with serious illness who may be approaching the end of life. Our purpose is to help people with any life-limiting illness maintain dignity and control over their own lives and care. That means we care for their emotional and spiritual needs, as well as the physical.

Available in the patient's home, more than 40 area assisted living, group homes, nursing facilities and most hospitals in Erie County. Most people who are ill would rather be home than in a hospital. Hospice provides the services and support they need to be comfortable and free of pain or other distressing symptoms, so they can live life at home or in a home-like setting, close to family and friends.

Focused on comfort. Hospice provides prescription medications, medical supplies and equipment delivered to the door of the patient. We can also help with respite care. In addition to comprehensive, palliative (comfort-focused) care, Hospice can help you with additional kinds of care that are just as important: social services, pastoral and spiritual care, assistance with legal and other issues, and grief counseling.

Covered by most health insurance plans, including Medicare and Medicaid. Care is based on the patient's need, not the ability to pay.

A choice. A patient's physician does need to approve Hospice care, but anyone can call us at any time. In fact, if you prefer, we can speak to your doctor for you.

For more information, call (716) 686-8077
or visit us at HospiceBuffalo.com
email us at info@palliativecare.org

Something special every day.

*comfort.
love.
respect.*

Living life as fully as possible is what hospice and palliative care are all about.

Whether your loved one has a serious illness and lives in a nursing home, an assisted living facility, or their own home, you'll find compassionate care with Hospice. Hospice is committed to delivering everything someone needs to travel their end-of-life journey. Our expert team will create the best care plan with your loved one's doctor. And Hospice will be on call 24/7, not only for physical care, but for emotional and spiritual support as well.

For more information, call 686-8077
or visit HospiceBuffalo.com

The only licensed hospice program in Erie County.

hospice is

A unique way of caring for people with serious illness who may be approaching the end of life. Our purpose is to help people with any life-limiting illness maintain dignity and control over their own lives and care. That means we care for their emotional and spiritual needs, as well as the physical.

Available in the patient's home, more than 40 area assisted living, group homes, nursing facilities and most hospitals in Erie County. Most people who are ill would rather be home than in a hospital. Hospice provides the services and support they need to be comfortable and free of pain or other distressing symptoms, so they can live life at home or in a home-like setting, close to family and friends.

Focused on comfort. Hospice provides prescription medications, medical supplies and equipment delivered to the door of the patient. We can also help with respite care. In addition to comprehensive, palliative (comfort-focused) care, Hospice can help you with additional kinds of care that are just as important: social services, pastoral and spiritual care, assistance with legal and other issues, and grief counseling.

Covered by most health insurance plans, including Medicare and Medicaid. Care is based on the patient's need, not the ability to pay.

A choice. A patient's physician does need to approve Hospice care, but anyone can call us at any time. In fact, if you prefer, we can speak to your doctor for you.

For more information, call (716) 686-8077
or visit us at HospiceBuffalo.com
email us at info@palliativecare.org

Something special every day.